

Received & Inspected

DEC 11 2018

FCC Mailroom

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please reconsider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated and costing me, millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $80 million.

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, support groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free conference calling.

Do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rulemaking in WC Docket No. 18-155.

Dec. 1, 2018

I am very much enjoying the free conference calling! I thank whoever made this possible and we hope to be able to continue!

God bless each of you. Wishing you a Happy New Year! Love, Reuben's Sadie Stettinius

Phone No.

WC Docket # 18-155

Received & Inspected
DEC 10 2018

Nov. 28, '18

Dear Sirs,

As an older widow, I use the free conference calling to listen to church services, when I am unable to be there in person. It helps to pass my time and would miss it, if it were taken away.

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please consider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated and costing me, millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $ 80 million.

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, supports groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities meetings and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free free conference calling.

Do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rule making in WC Docket No. 18-155.

Your Telephone number

Signed,
Your Name Anna Coblentz

Date 11-28-18

WC Docket number 18-155 regarding: Updating the intercarrier Compensation Regime including conference calling services.

80
My wife and I are 80 years old and enjoy the conference line. Please let it continue the way it is.

Thank you.

Received & Inspected

DEC 10 2018

FCC Mailroom

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please consider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated and costing me, millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $ 80 million.

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, supports groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities meetings and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free free conference calling.

Do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rule making in WC Docket No. 18-155.

Your Telephone number

Signed.

Your Name Leonard A Martin

Date 11-26-18

James D. Zaiger

Voice: [REDACTED]
EMAIL Fax Service: [REDACTED]

Received & Inspected

DEC 10 2018

FCC Mailroom

11/29/2018

Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street SW
Washington D.C. 20554

Dear FCC,

Re: WC Docket number 18-155 regarding: Updating the Intercarrier Compensation Regime including conference calling services.

I would first like to thank you for your consistent efforts in the past to provide needed telephone communication services at reduced costs to rural and other populations that are under-served in comparison to the urban areas of our country as well as to the handicapped and those with other disadvantages. This policy accents the best in American society. A point that may not have been highlighted is that these free conference calling services are a tremendous help to many, such as the Amish and Mennonites, who because of their religious beliefs have limited themselves and their families in the use of modern technology, especially the Internet. In their way, I believe that these people make a tremendous contribution to promoting the good of this country. Again, I sincerely thank you for your past efforts.

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please reconsider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated for me and millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $80 million,

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, support groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free conference calling.

Please do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rulemaking in WC Docket No. 18-155.

Sincerely,

James D. Zaiger

Received & Inspected

DEC 10 2018

FCC Mailroom

As a taxpayer, and a free conference calling client, I ask you to please reconsider acting on WC Docket No. 18-155. My free conference calling services are currently at risk of being completely eliminated and costing me, millions of others and our businesses.

I am urging you to refrain from eliminating services that I and millions of other Americans use regularly.

Long-distance carriers will not be negatively affected, financially or otherwise, if free conference calling services are left alone. In fact, they stand to gain upwards of $80 million.

However, if the FCC does decide to remove these services, I and millions of other American citizens and American businesses will be immediately and negatively affected. We will no longer be able to use these services for free and will instead be forced to pay for conferencing services provided by the long-distance carriers if we want to reach our non-profit organizations, our families, our churches, singing calls, news calls, prayer groups, support groups, board meetings, committee meetings, startups, schools, and global corporate communities and their families.

Widows and other lonely individuals are finding comfort in this type of free conference calling.

Do not take away my free conference calling services and further line the pockets of major long-distance carriers.

I ask the Federal Communication Commission to refrain from proceeding with its rulemaking in WC Docket No. 18-155.

Thank you

IVAN MARTIN

